

Families Matter

Hamilton Family Engagement Initiative

Estate Planning / RDSP / Housing Trusts / Henson Trusts

Brendon D. Pooran of PooranLaw Professional Corporation will discuss estate planning techniques specific to individuals with disabilities and their families. In particular, he will focus on Registered Disability Savings Plans, Henson Trusts, Housing Trusts and legal decision-making matters. References will also be made to social assistance benefits (ODSP), tax planning strategies and the role of microboards within the overall future plan.

This session is a continuation of the session held in March and will provide for the unanswered questions you may have had that night. However, please note, that attendance at the previous session is not necessary for you to come to this next session. All are welcome.

Brendon is the founding lawyer at PooranLaw Professional Corporation. He regularly provides advice to individuals, families, organizations and government in the areas of: wills & estates planning; disability law; and corporate law for not-for-profit and charitable organizations. In addition to being a lawyer, Brendon teaches Critical Disability Law at York University, is the Past-President of Community Living York South and is a founding director of PLAN Toronto. He is also a lawyer member on the Ontario Consent and Capacity Board.

You may be able to join the session through an internet connection. If you are interested in this, please advise by emailing: dmarcaccio@rygiel.ca. We will then advise of the process in advance.
